PETITION

(James City County Residents)

We, the concerned residents of Forge Road and the surrounding neighborhood, hereby voice our strong objections to the Rezoning Application Z-13-05, proposing the rezoning from A-1 to R-5 of almost twenty-one acres fronting on 3126 Forge Road and extending north to the railroad tracks. Such a rezoning would allow approximately 91 townhouses to be constructed. We petition the Planning Commission/Board of Supervisors NOT to vote in favor of this rezoning.

We, the concerned residents of Forge Road and the surrounding neighborhood, hereby voice our strong objections to the Rezoning Application Z-13-05, proposing the rezoning from A-1 to R-5 of almost twenty-one acres fronting on 3126 Forge Road and extending north to the railroad tracks. Such a rezoning would allow approximately 91 townhouses to be constructed. We petition the Planning Commission/Board of Supervisors NOT to vote in favor of this rezoning.

MEMORANDUM

DATE: June 13, 2006

TO: The Board of Supervisors

FROM: Jody Puckett, Communications Director/Cable Administrator

SUBJECT: Public Access Channel 46 – NASA Programming

The Board will be considering a change to the County's cable ordinance during the June 13 regular meeting. If modified, the ordinance will give the County the ability to provide new satellite programming, the NASA Channel, on public access Channel 46, as requested through the Hampton Roads Mayors and Chairs. The request by NASA was prompted after its Channel was removed from the Cox Communications lineup. Since NASA employs many residents in Hampton Roads and wishes to enhance its community presence, they have asked each locality to show the NASA Channel via an available access channel.

The local public access channel began in 1984 as part of the original franchise agreement with Continental Cablevision. Public access operations remained with the local cable company until Cox Communications became the new franchise in 1995. During negotiations, Cox passed the public access channel programming and equipment to the County for operation. James City County continues to be the only locality that offers a public access channel in Hampton Roads.

Public access production at the County's Community Video Center has evolved into a fee-based service through a nominal fee of $60/per hour for taping and editing services. Playback of video programs that meet technical and content requirements has remained free to the community.

Although public access provides an outlet for community organizations to educate and inform residents about services and events, staff has found it underutilized. A 2002 County Communications Office survey sent to Cox subscribers indicated that 64 percent of respondents never watch Channel 46 or only watch on an annual basis. Asked if Channel 46 public access increased their awareness of community issues, 88 percent said they found it not helpful or somewhat helpful.

The Board on June 6, 2006, received citizen correspondence titled Public Access TV For Citizen Use that contains misinformation that needs to be corrected:

- The 3 PEG access channels, Channel 46, 47, and 48, respectively, operated through our franchise agreement are public, educational (operated by WJCC Schools), and government. Only one channel, Channel 46, is called public access.
- The recommendation to use Channel 46 public access for NASA satellite feeds does not create another government channel but uses Channel 46 for a different community service.
- The twelve shows referenced are not inclusive of all programming on Channel 46 and are attributed to one user only.
- Consideration to modify Channel 46 programming and the NASA Channel has been in open discussion during the Cable Committee meetings since directed by the Board of Supervisors Chair at the September 27, 2005, meeting.

Here are Channel 46 usage figures for the last two fiscal years:

FY 06: 225 total programs (New and Repeated) 5 users: 13 total programs	Program break down: 2 political 11 programs representing ten community organizations
Programs pre-produced/aired at no charge 6 users: 212 programs (new and repeated)	3 political debates 130 religious (78 repeated) 1 health related
FY 06 public access billings: $960	Estimated actual cost: $28,560*

FY 05: 195 total programs (New and Repeated) Programs originated in studio 1 user: 8 programs	Program break down: 8 programs representing seven community organizations
Programs pre-produced/aired at no charge 8 users: 187 programs (new and repeated)	1 political debate 117 religious (65 repeated) 4 community related
FY 05 public access billing: $600	Estimated actual cost: $24,360*

* Estimated cost of public access programs includes staff time, equipment costs, supplies and materials, and facilities averaged over FY 05 and FY 06.

In summary, the figures indicate that over the past two fiscal years, 14 users have either produced or submitted 420 new or repeated public access programs. Ninety-three percent of the programs are pre-produced religious. The County has billed $1,560 for public access production services over the past two years. As indicated in the 2002 communications cable survey, Channel 46 has a very small audience.

The Cable Communication Committee and staff are sensitive to the publicity needs of local community groups. If community programming is eliminated from Channel 46, residents continue to have options to publicize events and information with local newspapers and radio public service announcements. The Cable Committee has directed staff to explore the retention of the community bulletin board for Channel 46, which currently displays messages at no cost to nonprofit groups.

The option to keep public access programming, the community bulletin board, plus the NASA Channel is technically feasible but will require more staff time and resources. The workload is affected by the production and preparation to air any given program. Once ready to air on Channel 46, air times and frequency do not contribute to workload.

As we look to the future, the Board is encouraged to consider how resources and staff time could be used best to communicate with citizens. The Communications Office desires to redeploy staff resources to new initiatives in addition to our continued public information efforts. Those include:

- Web streaming of our cable channel and archived videos;
- Enhancing emergency preparedness information and County communications before, during, and after an event through web, video, publications, radio, and other new technologies; and
- Supporting the integration of video and web services at existing and new facilities.

MEMORANDUM

DATE: June 13, 2006

TO: The Board of Supervisors

FROM: Darryl E. Cook, Environmental Director

SUBJECT: Chesapeake Bay Preservation Ordinance: Education Program and Civil Charges

Civil charges have been recommended to the Board on numerous occasions as part of the resolution of Chesapeake Bay Preservation Ordinance Resource Protection Area (RPA) violations. The amounts of the charges have ranged from $500 to $6,000 with an average amount of $2,675. The civil charge recommendations to the Board are developed consistent with the Civil Charge Matrix that was approved by the Board when the civil charge provision was first adopted.

Environmental Division staff has received requests from several of the citizens cited for the violations for a method to offset or reduce the size of the civil charge. In an effort to address this issue, staff would like to implement a program that would allow for a reduction in the civil charges in cases where the citizen/violator voluntarily agrees to attend an educational Chesapeake Bay Workshop conducted by Environmental Division staff.

The purpose of the workshop would be to educate the attendees on the value and benefits of the Chesapeake Bay, and our streams and rivers. Instruction would include information on the ordinances and regulations protecting environmentally sensitive areas particularly the RPA. It would include information on how an individual property owner can contribute to a better environment by protecting and preserving the buffer, and also enhancing the buffer with native vegetation. The workshop would be conducted twice a year, last approximately three to four hours, and be offered to non-violators as well. In this way the workshop would help foster general public awareness of the RPA and environmental issues, and hopefully help prevent inadvertent violations.

This type of workshop is presently being conducted by the City of Norfolk for tidal wetlands violations. Similar education programs exist within the Department of Motor Vehicles for driver improvement.

Staff has developed the attached modified Civil Charge Matrix incorporating a Chesapeake Bay Workshop Credit allowance. The matrix presents the values from the adopted matrix with the numbers in parentheses being the credit amount. The citizen/violator who voluntarily agrees to attend the workshop would have his/her civil charge reduced by a certain percentage according to the modified matrix. For example, someone with a minor degree of noncompliance and a moderate water quality impact would realize a 30 percent reduction in the recommended charge from $1,500 to $1,050. The percentages of the reduction are structured so that as the degree of noncompliance increases (representing a more flagrant violation), the amount of the credit decreases.

If the Board does not object to this program, it is staff's intention to immediately move forward with its implementation.

Chesapeake Bay Preservation Ordinance Civil Penalty Procedures

(As adopted by the Board of Supervisors - August 19, 1999)

Principle

All violations of the Ordinance will be prosecuted to obtain an acceptable remedy. All RPAs and associated buffers that are disturbed without an exception or waiver granted in accordance with the provisions of the Ordinance will be restored on a 2:1 replacement basis.

Process

The process will be to document the violation with a Notice Of Violation that states the conditions necessary to bring their site into compliance with the Ordinance. If there is a failure to follow the terms stipulated in the Notice, the County will file suit to take the violator to court where civil penalties of up to $5000 per day can be assessed. However, if the violator cooperates with all provisions of the Notice and remedies the violation, we will not file suit. An exception would be if we can determine that the violation was intentional as would be the case if we had prior contact with the violator regarding the matter of the RPA restrictions.

Penalty

In order to serve as a deterrent, even in the event of a cooperative restoration settlement, civil charges will be sought. Under current state law, the Board of Supervisors must approve all civil charges. The amount of the civil charge recommended will be dependent on the violation's impact on water quality and the degree of non-compliance. Violations that are more severe and will take longer to be restored to an acceptable condition will have larger charges recommended by staff. Violations comprising less than 100 square feet of disturbance or the removal of no more than three trees will not have a civil charge recommended unless there have been prior violations by the violator. The maximum civil charge is $10,000 per violation.

The following table presents a matrix that will guide staff recommendations on the establishment of a civil charge for a specific violation. The amounts presented are not absolute and are intended to be a guide. Each violation will have several unique characteristics that will require the exercise of judgment in arriving at a civil charge. Charges in each case could vary by up to 100% depending on the specific circumstances involved.

Civil Charge Determination
Water Quality Impact	Significant	$5000	$7500	$10,000
	Moderate	$1500	$3000	$4500
	Minor	$500	$1000	$1500
		Minor	Moderate	Major
Degree of Non-Compliance

Water Quality Impact

The impact of a given violation will be determined based on several factors. It involves more than just the square footage of impact; it also addresses the relative environmental value of the resource lost. Factors that will be considered as they relate to the violation's impact on water quality include the size of the violation, the number of trees and other vegetation removed, the size and maturity of the vegetation removed, the amount of tree canopy removed, the amount of ground disturbance involved, etc. Mitigating factors that will be considered are whether the vegetation removed would have qualified for removal if a request was made in accordance with the Ordinance. The Ordinance allows for the removal of vegetation weakened by age, storm, fire or other natural causes or vegetation that is dead, diseased or dying. These factors will be used to determine how much of the functional value of the buffer was lost and how long it will take for the function to be recovered.

Degree of Non-compliance

This factor will be used to assess the motivation behind the violation. Factors that will be considered in assessing the degree of non-compliance are degree of willfulness, history of non-compliance, and cooperation. Unintentional violations that are cooperatively restored will not be charged the same as intentional violations that are difficult to resolve.
